

Elena Cordonean

Elena Cordonean is the Editor in Chief of the Southwestern Law Review and a fourth-year evening student at Southwestern Law School. Ms. Cordonean aspires to pursue a career in municipal law, corporate business litigation, or civil appeals. Prior to being selected as the current Editor in Chief, Ms. Cordonean served as the Academic Chair on the Moot Court Board of Governors and competed at the Spong William & Mary Law School National Competition and Leroy R. Hassell, Sr. National Constitutional Law Moot Court Competition where her team placed second place nationally. At Southwestern, Ms. Cordonean also served as a Research Assistant, Dean's Fellow Academic Mentor, and Civil Procedure and Professional Responsibility Teaching Assistant.

This year, Ms. Cordonean has been selected to participate in the Southwestern Amicus Project and she has filed her first Amicus Brief with the United States Supreme Court.

Ms. Cordonean's student note, "Remain in Mexico" Policy and its Progeny: Is There Hope?, will be published in the third issue of the 52nd volume of the Southwestern Law Review.