The Financial Aid Office at Southwestern seeks to provide or secure financial assistance for its students whenever possible. To this end, the law school has developed a financial aid program which includes scholarships, loans, and employment. Information about these programs can be found at <https://www.swlaw.edu/finaid>.

Southwestern actively participates in the Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan Program, the Federal Direct Graduate PLUS (Grad PLUS) Loan Program, and the Federal Work-Study Program. In addition, the law school is fully approved for JD students who wish to use their veteran educational benefits.

All financial aid administered through the law school is awarded on a non-discriminatory basis without regard to race, sex, age, religion, national or ethnic origin, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, prior military service, or any other characteristic protected by state or federal law. Detailed information on the law school's financial aid programs and the application process is included in the Southwestern catalog.

Eligibility for financial aid is contingent upon minimum enrollment and scholastic performance requirements.

Any student who has applied for or who has received financial aid should read the Academic Policies and Procedures, and Academic Disqualification, Academic Probation, and Academic Improvement Program Policies, and should consult with a financial aid counselor (not clerical staff) in Room W102 as soon as possible before any of the following:

1. The student transfers from one program of study to another (e.g., from the day program to the evening program).
2. The student drops below half-time status (less than 5 units per semester or SCALE term, or less than 2 units for summer (less than 3 units starting in summer 2024)) or withdraws from school.
3. The student repeats a course(s) for no credit or plans to sit in on a class to make up an Incomplete.
4. The student takes an official leave of absence.
5. The student is academically disqualified. (Please note: Once a student is academically disqualified, eligibility for all financial aid, including but not limited to scholarships, loans, grants, and student employment, is lost immediately. Students are strongly urged to see a counselor in the Financial Aid Office to discuss the financial ramifications of academic disqualification.)
6. The student is readmitted after academic disqualification.
7. The student plans to attend another university on a temporary basis (i.e., visiting status, study abroad, etc.).
8. The student transfers to another school.
