Los Angeles' Law School

Celebrating

110 YEARS

Message

from the President and Dean

Southwestern Law School is a special place to study law.

For more than 110 years, we have cultivated passionate, creative, client-focused attorneys and leaders. As the second-oldest law school in Los Angeles, we have always sought outstanding students who have the passion and ability to advocate successfully for their clients, serve their communities, and be leaders in the profession. Our alumni serve as highly regarded attorneys, judges, government leaders, entrepreneurs, professors, and social activists. They've positively impacted their clients' lives, advanced justice, created jobs and businesses, taught generations of students, and improved society.

We are one of the most diverse law schools in the country, in one of the most diverse cities. We have an incredibly caring faculty and staff who go above and beyond every day and will invest enthusiastically in your growth and success.

Our students and alumni will welcome and embrace you. We have one of the most beautiful buildings in which to study law. We are regularly rated a top school for practical training. We have amazing public interest and social justice programs, renowned advocacy programs, and one of the best entertainment law programs in the country.

Many of our students and alumni are First-Gen. If you're also First-Gen, know that we have programs that will allow you to develop into a first-rate attorney. And we will provide you with incredible opportunities to help you navigate and integrate into the legal profession.

“As a stand-alone private school, we do one thing: law. And we do it exceptionally well. We are a professional oasis where you can focus on becoming the best attorney possible. We are also agile and nimble, which allows us to adjust to a rapidly changing profession and world.”

---

This viewbook provides a brief overview of our curriculum, programs, and opportunities. I also encourage you to visit campus and participate in our programming for prospective students. Most importantly, I hope you will consider applying to Southwestern and joining our tradition of excellence!

Best,

Darby Dickerson
President and Dean

5 J.D. Programs

Southwestern's J.D. programs allow students to earn 87 units at a pace that suits them. Whether following an accelerated, full-time, or part-time schedule, all students have access to 200+ electives, experiential opportunities, curricular concentrations, professional development programs, and co-curricular activities that complement classroom learning.

2 Years

Accelerated J.D. Program (SCALE)

Complete your J.D. alongside a close-knit cohort of students. SCALE features a guaranteed externship; small, interactive classes; and flexibility to pursue your interests.

3 Years

Full-Time Day J.D. Program

Pursue the full-time J.D. path and take advantage of myriad electives and co-curricular options, develop a broad legal network, and establish yourself on the career path of your choice.

4 Years

Part-Time Day Caregiver J.D. Program (PLEAS)

Designed for child- and elder-caregivers, your first-year courses occur in the morning, so later in the day you can provide care for those who need you most.

4 Years

Part-Time Day J.D. Program

Earn your J.D. during the day, but at a pace that allows for greater flexibility. Ideal for those who work evening hours or have outside responsibilities beyond school.

4 Years

Part-Time Hybrid Evening J.D. Program

Keep your 9-to-5 job and earn your J.D. at the same time. It features a mix of in-person and online classes to minimize your commute but allow you to learn and forge deep connections.

Joint-Degree Programs

3+3 B.A./J.D. Program

Cal State University Northridge (CSUN) and Southwestern Law School have established an accelerated multiple-degree program through which students can earn both their Bachelor of Arts and Juris Doctor degrees in six years, rather than the usual seven. CSUN students' first year of law school counts as their fourth undergraduate year.

J.D./M.B.A. Program

The joint-degree program offered through the Drucker School of Management and Southwestern Law School enable students to acquire the combination of legal training and management skills that is increasingly in demand in a complex global environment. By allowing students to engage in the institutions' unique curricula, the collaboration reflects the core values of both Drucker and Southwestern, and the genuine desire to prepare graduates for fulfilling careers that will make a positive difference in society.

Finding Your Niche

J.D. Concentrations

Southwestern offers seven optional concentrations. The focus areas below illustrate ways you can customize your degree at Southwestern.

Civil Litigation & Advocacy

The Civil Litigation & Advocacy Concentration, part of the Panish Civil Justice Program, prepares students for the courtroom and for law practice as litigators in law firms. Students take courses in litigation skills and assist with real litigation matters through clinics, externships, or practicum courses.

Criminal Law & Advocacy

The Criminal Law & Advocacy Concentration provides a robust and engaging curriculum of specialized electives, clinics, and externship opportunities. This concentration is ideal for students interested in joining a District Attorney's or Public Defender's Office, exploring private practice, or with an eye on becoming a judge.

Critical Race, Gender & Sexuality Studies

This new concentration challenges students to examine the law through a critical theory lens, focusing on race, gender, and sexuality perspectives. Coursework covers subjects such as civil rights, criminal law, employment law, family law, and immigration law, allowing students to develop a broad theoretical basis for understanding the law. Theory is then informed by hands-on experiences in clinics, externships, and practica.

Entertainment & Media Law

The Entertainment & Media Law Concentration offers students a comprehensive program of innovative courses, the Entertainment & The Arts Clinic, and externship opportunities in one of the world's leading entertainment hubs. Offered in cooperation with the Biederman Entertainment & Media Law Institute, Southwestern's industry-focused curriculum is top-rated nationally. Externship opportunities include SAG-AFTRA, Universal, and Warner Bros.

Labor & Employment Law

The Labor & Employment Law Concentration offers training in up to a dozen distinct practice areas relating to workplace law, from employment discrimination and wage-and-hour disputes to collective bargaining and workers' compensation. Students also learn through externships and classroom simulations.

Public Interest Law

The Public Interest Law Concentration provides an engaging curriculum that encourages students to provide access to justice for underserved individuals and communities. The concentration offers a rich array of courses rooted in clinical and experiential-based skills building, substantive and theoretical legal training, and public-service opportunities, which are complemented by our unique location in the center of the Los Angeles public-interest-law corridor.

Technology Law & Entrepreneurship

The Technology Law & Entrepreneurship Concentration prepares students for the fast-changing world of high-growth technology start-ups. Students can focus on the business-law side or the technology-law side, or select courses from both areas. Students also engage in practical skills courses to prepare for real-world practice.

Professor Catherine Carpenter '76, Director of the Criminal Law & Advocacy Concentration, discussing concentrations options with a class.

Developing well-rounded practitioners and connecting students to the industry

Southwestern consistently ranks among the top ten law schools in the country for entertainment, music, and intellectual property law. Our Biederman Entertainment and Media Law Institute actively seeks opportunities to advance social justice and serves as a pipeline to diversify the legal profession within the entertainment industry.

The Institute complements a broad offering of entertainment, media, and intellectual property coursework with programs such as:

- Externships: Offering hands-on training at places like CBS, Rhino Entertainment, RKO Pictures, Slingshot Global Media, and Warner Music Group.
- Biederman Scholars: A select group of outstanding students invited to participate in a variety of unique initiatives, including an industry mentor program, behind-the-scenes roles in Institute events/programs, and priority placement in externships and law firm practica.
- The Entertainment & the Arts Legal Clinic: Attorney-supervised students advocate for performers, writers, composers, producers, directors, rights-holders, and others who need legal assistance with creative projects. The Clinic offers unrivaled opportunities to develop critical lawyering skills while building client trust and management experience. Services are pro-bono, but look for our Clinic logo in the credits of upcoming projects!
- Summer in London and More: The Institute sponsors a long-running study-abroad program, co-sponsors an international entertainment and media law conference, and produces a podcast based on its speaker series.

“No other law school compares to Southwestern’s entertainment-related course offerings and experiential opportunities. The Institute’s programming and resources inspired and enabled me to pursue my dream of becoming an entertainment attorney.”

Experiential Learning

Externships, Legal Clinics, and Public-Service Programs

Students advocate for real clients in the real world.

Supported by a first-year curriculum that integrates practical knowledge and training alongside doctrinal learning, students step into the attorney role through 385+ externships, 8 legal clinics, 2 practica, our Public-Service Program, Public-Service Fellowships, and the Yoka-Panish Civil Justice Fellowships.

Externships

One of the largest programs in the country

Our dedicated team helps students find externships in judicial, criminal defense, prosecution, corporate in-house, entertainment, public interest, law firm, and other settings. Externships provide invaluable learning experiences and are available to students in all five J.D. programs.

- Appellate Litigation Clinic: Students litigate a pro-bono appeal in the Ninth Circuit Court, often participating in oral arguments based on their appellate brief.
- Children's Rights Clinic: Students represent low-income children in school discipline proceedings or children with disabilities in special education proceedings. They also work with community groups to advocate for equitable educational opportunities.
- Community Lawyering Clinic: Students staff the legal clinic at California State University, Northridge, representing clients in immigration matters, leading community presentations, and engaging in policy advocacy.
- Entertainment & the Arts Legal Clinic: Students provide production, business, and legal affairs services on independent documentary and feature films.
- Eviction Defense Clinic: Students represent low-income tenants being evicted or at risk of being evicted.
- Family Law Clinic: Students help protect domestic violence survivors, improve the well-being of children in poverty, empower people in need, and provide meaningful access to the courts.
- Immigration Law Clinic: Students represent children and adults in immigration matters where clients have been abused, neglected, abandoned, or victims of a crime.
- Street Law Clinic: Students teach local teenagers about their rights and provide legal information and resources to help them transition successfully to independent living.

Note: Licensed attorneys and clinical staff supervise all clinic students.

Some of the most rewarding hours in law school are those spent applying what you have learned in your classes to a real-world environment.

- Practica: Southwestern's Amicus Project Practicum and Immigration Appeals Practicum provide invaluable educational experiences through real-life practice under the close supervision of faculty and practitioners.
- Public-Service Program: Students are encouraged to complete at least 75 pro bono service hours throughout their time at Southwestern. Students develop practical lawyering skills such as client interviewing, document preparation/drafting, issue spotting, etc., while simultaneously providing vital legal services to the community.
- Judge Harry Pregerson Public-Service Fellowships: Made possible by the Rodan Family Foundation, the Pregerson legacy programs honor Judge Harry Pregerson, who served nearly 40 years on the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals and influenced both the physical and social landscape of Los Angeles through his professional and philanthropic work. Harry's Boot Camp is a robust, day-long program providing community service and highlighting skill-building for public-interest law practice. JHP Public-Service Fellowships provide financial assistance to students dedicated to working with underserved communities and worthy causes.

Justice for All Humans

#StopHate, Xenophobia, and Discrimination

Southwestern empowers students to change the world and has responded to human rights issues, xenophobia, and discrimination through innovative programming:

- Russian War Against Ukraine: A Ukrainian-born Southwestern professor led a discussion about the global response to the Russian war and the Ukrainian fight for democracy.
- Stop Asian Hate: Alongside local organizations, Southwestern co-hosted interactive sessions about how to respond to Anti-Asian/American harassment, including bystander intervention techniques and self-care practices.
- Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization*: Within days of the historic ruling in Dobbs, Southwestern hosted an expert panel to engage the community in discussions about the underlying legal issues, the practical effects of the decision, and the landscape ahead.
- Lawyer-Harriets Help: In the wake of the Dobbs decision, student volunteers partnered with the Women Lawyers Association Los Angeles to launch the Overground Reproductive Law Project, providing legal research and support to advance reproductive access.
- Armenian Genocide Remembrance: Southwestern hosts an annual Armenian Genocide Remembrance. Last year, the program featured international lawyer Karnig Kerkonian and author Dr. Maria Armoudian in a program on Justice and Accountability for Artsakh and Armenia.

Your Success Is Our Success!

Academic Success and Bar Preparation

Law school is challenging. But from the beginning, Southwestern supports your legal education journey with one-on-one support including peer mentorship, research-backed teaching methods, customized writing instruction, and meaningful relationships with faculty focused on your learning. We've got your back!

- Academic Success & Bar Preparation Department: Faculty facilitate courses, workshops, student programs, and one-on-one counseling sessions to help students build practical study skills and understand their learning styles.
- Bison Boot Camp: Entering students participate in a free, week-long intensive course during the summer, practicing the skills needed to succeed during their first year of law school, and beyond. Campers get a head start on what to expect once classes begin.
- Dean's Fellows: Upper-division students with track records of academic achievement mentor new students and help them develop crucial skills such as time management, reading and briefing cases, and outlining.
- The Writing Center: Faculty and students with a demonstrated capacity for legal writing guide other students through written assignments and drafting exercises. Writing Center staff go beyond proofreading and help students develop the skills necessary to be confident and exceptional legal writers. Additionally, the Writing Center hosts the Storytelling Project, a speaker series based on the concept that all lawyers must tell stories.
- Bison Bar Pass: Southwestern has developed a supplemental bar preparation program tailored to our graduates' needs. Students benefit from bespoke services, including individualized feedback, unlimited review of practice exams and essays, simulated exams, and customized study schedules—usually available only through private tutoring.

- Negotiation Honors Program: Students negotiate a deal on behalf of a hypothetical client and learn how to advocate for client interests, marshal favorable and unfavorable facts, and interact civilly with adversaries in various competition settings.
- Trial Advocacy Honors Program: Student teams represent fictional clients in mock trials against opposing counsel/teams. Advocates master the rules of evidence, present opening statements, examine witnesses, argue objections, and deliver closing arguments.

- Southwestern Law Review: Students select and edit articles from leading practitioners and legal theorists. Students also research and write their own articles, some of which are published.

- Southwestern Journal of International Law: Students receive meaningful opportunities to develop legal research and writing skills as they enhance their knowledge of international law issues and complement their international and comparative law coursework.

- Journal of International Media &

Entertainment Law: In cooperation with the American Bar Association's Forums on Communications Law and the Entertainment and Sports Industries, our Entertainment & Media Law Institute publishes an academic journal. Students provide editorial support alongside an editorial board composed of prominent legal scholars and practitioners.

Meera E. Deo

The Honorable Vaino Spencer
Chair

A national expert on legal education, racial representation, and diversity, equity, and inclusion, Professor Deo encourages students to share perspectives and learn from the diverse experiences of those in her classes. These interactions inform her scholarly research, which focuses on the intersection of legal academia and race, gender, caregiver status, and other positionalities.

Her book, Unequal Profession: Race and Gender in Legal Academia, and her prior practice as an ACLU Fellow and staff attorney for public-interest firms, are just a few of the accomplishments she brings to the classroom.

of Law

Professor Gunning pursued law school for the same reason many Southwestern students do: to support progressive change in society while working across differences in political, economic, and social perspectives. A former public defender, she now focuses her scholarship on conflict resolution, restorative justice, multicultural dialogue, and the search for shared values within social power dynamics.

From a practice standpoint of alternative dispute resolution and mediation, she regularly engages with local community groups to facilitate conflict resolution among Los Angeles' diverse populations.

Campus Facilities

Once home to L.A.'s brightest stars and now fostering L.A.'s brightest students, Southwestern's historic Bullocks Wilshire building contains an expansive law library, one of three campus courtrooms, a fitness center and cafeteria, comfortable study spaces, and room for collaboration among students and faculty who embrace our open-door policy.

Classroom learning takes place both in Bullocks Wilshire and our second academic facility just next door, the Westmoreland building. With additional courtrooms, vast legal clinic spaces, and student services such as the Externship Office and Career Services Office, students can easily find their way around our intimate, yet fully-equipped, campus.

A tree-lined Promenade, lush outdoor courtyard, and quiet student apartment building round out the campus spaces and provide peaceful environments for study and growth. Just minutes from downtown, steps away from the Metro, and surrounded by opportunity, Southwestern's campus is an oasis within L.A.'s urban landscape.

On-Campus Housing: The Residences @7th

Move-in-ready apartments provide space and privacy in studio, one-, and two-bedroom options. Enjoy fully furnished rooms, including EnergyStar appliances in the kitchen, in-unit washer and dryer, television with basic cable, internet, and 24-hour on-site security.

With 133 units serving as home to more than 150 students, the Residences extend Southwestern's student-centered approach to legal education. Learn with peers in group-study rooms or relax in a comfortable residential lounge. Spend time outdoors on the sun deck or in a central courtyard that connects to the main campus. Additional amenities such as library-connected printing, community BBQ area, basketball court, and dedicated parking create a convenient home base for your legal education.

Southwestern's Task Force for Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging is a dedicated team of faculty, staff, students, and alumni charged with addressing essential issues relating to the diversity and inclusiveness of our community. Its overarching goal is to address critical EIB issues and enact positive changes so that Southwestern's entire community feels valued and included.

Southwestern has embraced and promoted equity, inclusion, and belonging since its 1911 inception. But our work is not finished. We engage in honest conversations, examine existing structures, and embrace change as we help to make the legal profession and society more inclusive and just.

Southwestern's OUTLaw student organization supports students with a network of nurturing connections and meaningful interactions with other LGBTQ+ individuals and allies. OUTLaw promotes the visibility and unity of the LGBTQ+ community at Southwestern Law School and in the Los Angeles area. OUTLaw's overarching mission is to educate the community about legal and social conflicts and issues that affect LGBTQ+ individuals and allies.

Southwestern's LGBTQ+ programming includes:

- Focused Coursework: Southwestern offers courses on sexual orientation and gender identity law, including Beyond Marriage Equality, Immigration and LGBTQ+ Youth in Systems of Care, and Transgender Law.
- Curricular Concentration: Southwestern offers a concentration in related to Critical Race, Gender, and Sexuality Studies and summer courses related to sexual orientation and gender identity.
- Dedicated Scholarships: Be sure to contact the Dean of Students and Diversity Affairs about scholarship opportunities.

Students begin working with the Career Services Office during their first semester.

The Career Services Office (CSO) partners with students and alumni about all aspects of their career development through individual career counseling, specialized programming, and extensive resources. The CSO sponsors recruitment programs, networking events, and other initiatives to connect students with private, public, and judicial sector employers. CSO trains students on personal and skills-based self-assessment, effective job search campaigns and strategies, workplace professionalism, and the diverse range of career opportunities available.

Recruitment platforms include OCI (on-campus interview program), the Fall Firm Reception, and the Public Interest/Public Sector Career Day. Students can access an extensive database of current job openings and innovative career-building programs and resources. Active employers include law firms and business organizations; local, state, and federal government agencies; local and national public-interest organizations; and local, state, and federal judiciaries.

Criminal Justice Reform

Southwestern at the forefront

Southwestern alumni have long excelled in criminal law and advocacy. In Los Angeles County, approximately 150 alumni serve as Deputy District Attorneys, about 130 alumni serve as Deputy Public Defenders, and many more are private criminal defense counsel. Additionally, about 100 Southwestern alumni currently serve as judges in Southern California, and two Southwestern alumni have served as Presiding Judges in Southern California for Los Angeles County and Ventura County.

Southwestern professors with backgrounds in practicing and studying criminal law bring real-life experiences and cutting-edge theories to the classroom to help train creative, competent, and compassionate advocates.

- Externship Examples: Extern in state and federal prosecutor and public defender offices to learn the criminal-justice system from the inside.
- Honors Opportunities: The Trial Advocacy Honors Program helps students learn the law and refine essential litigation skills by competing in mock trials against other law schools. Students learn to persuade with poise while mastering the rules of evidence, courtroom presentation techniques, and other trial skills.
- Concentration: Students who complete the Criminal Law & Advocacy Concentration with the requisite GPA receive an honors notation on their transcripts.
- Selected Coursework: Constitutional Criminal Procedure, Immigration Law & Crimes, Restorative Justice, Youth at Risk: Exploring the Juvenile Justice System, White Collar Crime, and Wrongful Convictions.

“Being in court, representing real clients showed me that I hold power to change a broken system. Southwestern has given me the tools necessary for a successful legal career, and my externships led me to a future in public service.”
